*"I am responsible. When anyone, anywhere, reaches out for help,
I want the hand of A.A. always to be there. And for that: I am responsible."*

ANONYMITY AND THE 2015 INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION

Why has anonymity remained so vital to the well-being of our Fellowship? While the reasons are numerous, of particular importance is that anonymity provides a safe way for someone struggling with alcoholism to seek help from A.A. without worrying that anyone else will know. Class A (nonalcoholic) trustee Frances Brisbane has referred countless alcoholics to A.A. in her years working as a professional in the field of alcoholism, and insists, "Of all the things I tell them about A.A., it's the principle of anonymity that most encourages them to venture to their first meeting."

Of course, this does not mean that A.A. is a secret organization, and A.A.'s International Conventions are far from secret events! While A.A. members do not disclose full names or faces when sharing information about A.A. through public media, our members still find many ways to cooperate with our friends in the press, in order to let the world know that we have found a solution to the fatal problem of alcoholism. Our online Press/Media Room on the A.A. website, www.aa.org, offers a wealth of information for media professionals about our program of recovery, our worldwide fellowship, and how A.A. members are available to cooperate with the press.

Likewise, a fully staffed (and very busy) press room will be part of our International Convention in Atlanta. Let's face it: a gathering of more than 50,000 formerly hopeless alcoholics who will come together in sobriety to celebrate 80 years of being happy, joyous and free is newsworthy. As Jim M., the Public Information coordinator at the General Service Office, explains: "We want the press to know that 'we' are in Atlanta to celebrate 80 years of A.A., without revealing through public media any personal identities that make up that 'we.' This is how we keep the focus on our message, rather than on any one messenger."

As chairman of the General Service Board, (nonalcoholic) Terry Bedient sees anonymity not as an act of self-restraint, but as an active demonstration of love and service. "Anonymity is a gift each member makes to the Fellowship. It is humility in action, a voluntary decision made by A.A. members to set aside personal recognition so that the A.A. principles and program can have center stage instead."

Today, the ability to share photo and video content via handheld devices is almost instantaneous. And A.A. members are all about sharing, right? When it comes to decisions about the individual practice of anonymity, a slightly paraphrased line from our Big Book provides a helpful suggestion: "It is not the matter of [sharing] that is in question, but when and how to [share]." (page 98) Many A.A. members are also familiar with the phrase in Twelve Steps and Twelve Traditions, "restraint of tongue and pen." This principle of prudent reflection before communicating has served many an A.A. member well. As one member recently shared in an A.A. meeting, "I also need to practice restraint of 'click and send!'"

FROM THE ARCHIVES – THE PREAMBLE

Items just appear in the Archives mailbox and we usually don't know who contributes them. We file them away and they are available for anyone who is interested in seeing them. Here is one such item which can be found at www.barefootworld.net/aa-oldpreamble.html as well as in the Archives room.

The Old and New Preambles

The Wilmington Preamble is much longer than the World Services Preamble, very much longer-10 short paragraphs. It is more like a meeting format. The first paragraph says:

"We are gathered here because we are faced with the fact that we are powerless over alcohol and unable to do anything about it without the help of a Power greater than ourselves. We feel that each person's religious views, if any, are his own affair. The simple purpose of the program of Alcoholics Anonymous is to show what may be done to enlist the aid of a Power greater than ourselves regardless of what our individual conception of that Power may be."

The rest of the preamble enlarges upon this theme also including, "There are no dues or fees...the only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking....Not being reformers we offer our experience only to those who want it...There is a vast amount of fun in the AA fellowship...In order to set our tone for this meeting I ask that we bow our heads in a few moments of silent prayer and meditation"

The final paragraphs remind members in detail that opinions expressed are those of the individual and adds: "If you don't have a big Book, it's time you bought one. Read it, study it, live with it, loan it, scatter it, and then learn from it what it means to be an AA."

The Preamble was first read at a meeting in Wilmington, Delaware in July 1944. It was written by Mickey M., a sportswriter who was in town on assignment and was asked to speak at the Wilmington meeting. He gave the same preamble to the Baltimore group when he was assigned there in a few weeks. This "Preamble" although much debated was widely accepted in Maryland and Delaware long before World Service sanctioned the shorter AA preamble, first introduced in the June 1947 Grapevine. The current version was first published in the Grapevine in September 1958 and has appeared inside the front cover of each Grapevine.

-Carolyn C, Archives Committee

THE A.A. TRADITION FOUR

Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or AA as a whole.

A member who does any amount of traveling finds the A.A. spirit much the same everywhere. But apart from this inward kinship, there are vast differences among groups.

As always, freedom brings responsibility. Because each group is autonomous, it's up to each group to avoid any action that might harm A.A. And there have been such actions—or this Tradition would be unnecessary. "Implicit throughout A.A.'s Traditions," Bill W. wrote, "is the confession that our Fellowship has its sins. We admit that we have character defects as a society and these defects threaten us continually."

Blown up to multiple size, the Big Ego may inspire one group to take over all the public information work for its area, without consulting any of the other local groups. Once the group has decided, "We have all the answers," the lid's off. The group may then decide that, let's say, the Eleventh Tradition is an outdated technicality: "This is a competitive age! We're going to come right out and give A.A. some good, vigorous promoting!" To the general public, this one conspicuous group is A.A. Its antics reflect, not only on the ignored neighboring groups, but on the entire Fellowship.

In a way, the Fourth Tradition is like the Fourth Step: It suggests that the A.A. group should take honest inventory of itself, asking about each of its independently planned actions, "Would this break any Tradition?" Like the individual member who chooses to make the Steps his or her guide toward happy sobriety, the wise group recognizes that the Traditions are not hindering technicalities—they are proved guides toward the chief objective of all A.A. groups.

While tens of thousands of sober alcoholics are expected to attend the Convention, approximately two million more members around the world will not be there. Those fortunate to be enjoying the Convention experience first-hand, caught up in feelings of deep gratitude, often want to “pass it on” to those faithful members back home who are making sure local A.A. phones are being answered, coffee is made and chairs are set up, and other local services continue uninterrupted for any newcomers entering A.A. while some of us are away from our home groups.

However, posting anything that discloses one’s membership in A.A. in a publicly accessible area of the Internet is not in keeping with A.A.’s tradition of anonymity (see “Anonymity Online,” available on the aa.org website).

Like so many of Bill W.’s writings, an article from the November 1960 issue of A.A. Grapevine offers principles that still ring true today. While Bill was writing at the time about television, the ideas he expressed are still wonderful guides for A.A. members sharing their experience in an increasingly digital world:

“A vast communications net now covers the earth, even to its remotest reaches. Granting all its huge public benefits, this limitless world forum is nevertheless a hunting ground for all those who would seek money, acclaim and power at the expense of society in general....

“Therefore nothing can matter more to the future welfare of AA than the manner in which we use this colossus of communication. Used unselfishly and well, the results can surpass our present imagination. Should we handle this great instrument badly, we shall be shattered by the ego demands of our own people, often with the best of intention on their part. Against all this, the sacrificial spirit of AA’s anonymity at the top public level is literally our shield and our buckler. Here again we must be confident that love of AA, and of God, will always carry the day.”

Here are some helpful suggestions for practicing the principle of anonymity in Atlanta:

WHERE?

Please do not take photographs or videos during any of the meetings at the International Convention...

WHO?

Please be considerate so you do not capture images of A.A. members, family members and friends in or around Convention venues who did not give permission and may not wish to appear in your photos/videos...

WHEN?

Please get permission first before taking photos — and consider having a quick conversation about how you’ll protect everyone’s anonymity...

WHAT?

Please look around for Convention signs, logos, badges or other A.A. items that, if captured in your photo, might suggest A.A. membership...

WHY?

...because Anonymity is OUR responsibility!
